A close-up photograph of a brick wall. The wall is composed of dark, weathered bricks in various shades of grey, brown, and black. A prominent feature is a cross-shaped arrangement of lighter, tan-colored bricks. The cross is formed by a vertical column of seven bricks and a horizontal row of three bricks, intersecting at the center. The lighting is dramatic, with the cross being the brightest part of the image, while the surrounding bricks are in deep shadow.
